A LESSON GIVEN TO THE PROPLE

Whether the intention manifested by the introduction of the amendment to the constitution by the Republicaus in the House near the close of the late otherwise, makes very little, if any difference in the lesson it gives to the people. There is a political force in the lesson it will be well to keep in view, because it effects a cardinal principle included in our system respecting the rights of the State-. There was a time when it was an ecidence of disloyalty to advocate the rights of the States, but that time is to the part, and there is no omes existing at this time that could lead to a like conclusion.

The environment now and then pre conted for consideration is radical in its difference. It was then connected with the right of a State to secede from: the Union, which thought was upper mo-t when the rights of the Statewere mentioned. The right of sevemon at no time existed after the constitution was adopted, but Calhono and others continued in the interest of slavery to contend for the right The question is settled against the right, if any such right could be possolies the gold aid sells aldis agreement of the States to take a federal form by acceptance of the federal constitution. That question being

"tet adversely to the right plaimer .esionista, and forever put at rest by a verdict at arms, there is no cause that could now intervene to preveut a dispassionate review of States righ a or any of them by the people

The purpose of the imperialists is to centralize power to govern in the fed • al government, which would answer their ourse e much better this government by the States. The work requiel to co-rupt and control one system is much less than the work' required to control many systems of governments, which is perhaps th chie: con Heration there is to cause oppi-ition to the rights of the Stateby those who have no use for a republic. The founders of the republic place i in the federal constitution w provi ion requiring the federal govern ment to farmsh to each State a government republican in form.

It the duty nuposed upon the federal eystem to guaran ee to each State a republican form of covernment, there is a contional reminder of the excuest consideration a republican form and its protection received from the founderof the republic.

When they included a guarantee to the States of a republican form, if they were not fully aware of the ecope of its offert, they builded better than they knew, which confinnes to make at apparates in the systems of State an I federal governments, as time develops new phases by trial in many wigs that lest the wisdom there is Lichaded in the work of these patriote

It was the States creating a system for a united giv rement and not a united covernment creating a system for the States, as all rights belonged to the States or to the people there it and to any of them belonged to the federal system, as it did not have at | S J. Holgkinson, who guarantee satisextenses till it received it from the States. The writer has often queried upon the necessity there was in the minds of the framers of the consumtion for placing an obligation upon the creature to protect its creator as applied to State and fe least systems, but upon mature thought the wistom of the obligation is plain. It was more particularly intended to prevent the uni el power conferred upon the fed eral eystem from Lecoming oppressive upon the State systems by usurpation.

A safe guard against the usurpation of united power was deemed necessary and there was placed in the constitution in the form of a daty imposes: apon the federal government a dem and that it should guarantee to each State a republican form of government There are other reasons that could be stated as causes for the requirement mentioned, but the chief can e for imposing the daily on the federal government to guarantee to the States are. publicate form of government has hear. given. Are there any tensons or facts. that will laid to a conclusion that the

There is hot, nor hee there been an instance on the face of the globe when authority did not seek more power. The Christian church in its bletory is a living witness testifying to the truth that authority demands more power. There has been much said about the grace of God in the church but there never has been grace soffcient in the church or on the earth to prevent it from seeking more power. The spirit to demand more power is inherent in man and it will continue to the end, which was well understood by a bus zoitutitsuco edt lo seeman edt prohibition in the form contained in the instrument, was made upon the federal government.

The obligation mentioned is in the way of aggression upon the rights of the States and the only way remaining for the imperialists to arrive at contralized power, which is a chief object they have in view is to probare a voiuntary surrender of leading powers the States have refuleed to make an es deus stir revo re deriods of senoxe may remain in their possession. The people have an object lesson in the work of Congress at its last session by a munifest desire of the imperialism to obtain more power in federal government or, more truthfully speaking, section of Congress was serious or in those who direct federal government, but to procure the power desired they became usurpers.

When the amendment was proposed by the imperialists at the close of the session that the States should surrender a State right to the federal government, which was refused by the Demograts and others composing a minority, the little fellows among them teliered they had made a point wor h reprating and they turn up their noses and tosa their empty heads like a small boy with a chip on his shoulder and say "You didn't dare to
